- A note from Anne McNair, Casework Officer for the Statutory Advisory Committee for the CofE Church*

Buildings Council, Advisory Board for Redundant Churches, states:

"West rose window. Apparently, the glazing in the west end was a parish First World War memorial, devised by Wood. All that survives is the west rose window which was installed in 1917, dedicated to Charles Stuart, 6th Marquis of Londonderry, who died 1915. The window was dedicated by his daughter. There is also supposed to be a drawing of the plan at the rear of the Church The glass was designed by Burlison and Grylls and was inspired by late Flemish late medieval design. (This information has not been confirmed by the Advisory Board for Redundant churches)".

Can anybody add anything to this? I've added it to my file but not the web.
